

Student Peer Observation

Class: _____ Date: _____

OBSERVATION	SCALE	EXAMPLES/INSIGHTS
Students are respectful to each other.	Not Today Clearly Observed
Students seem interested in what is being taught.	Not Today Clearly Observed
Students appear happy and relaxed.	Not Today Clearly Observed
Students are respectful to the teacher.	Not Today Clearly Observed
Students act responsibly.	Not Today Clearly Observed
Students freely express their thoughts and ideas.	Not Today Clearly Observed
Students ask a lot of questions.	Not Today Clearly Observed

Samples of examples/insights:

Students are respectful to each other.

- Listening attentively to others' opinions
- Complimenting each others' ideas, thoughts, and efforts
- Extending kindness and compassion to one another

Students seem interested in what is being taught.

- Answering questions
- Asking for clarity
- Contributing ideas and thoughts

Students appear happy and relaxed.

- Talking and participating in class discussions
- Smiling and laughing when appropriate
- Having good posture (head high, sitting up)

Students are respectful to the teacher.

- Listening attentively
- Using respectful language
- Being open to new ideas and concepts

Students act responsibly.

- Coming to class prepared with necessary books and materials
- Arriving to class on time
- Following established rules and norms of behavior

Students freely express their thoughts and ideas.

- Offering different opinions or answers
- Participating in class discussions
- Being nonjudgmental

Students ask a lot of questions.

- Requesting more information for greater understanding
- Challenging the thoughts of others in a respectful way
- Feeling comfortable expressing themselves