

Student Voice

There are three parts to student voice:

1. Feeling comfortable sharing your ideas in a safe space
2. Sharing realistic ideas that help everyone
3. Being responsible and taking action

Listen, Learn, Lead: Using Your Voice

LISTEN: Truly hear what others have to say

Words related to good listening include: respectful, attentive, genuine, trustworthy.

Finish the following sentences:

A good listener is respectful when they _____.

When someone is an attentive listener, that means they are _____.

A genuine person is _____.

A trustworthy listener is someone who _____.

Write down the names of three people you know who are good listeners:

1. _____ 2. _____ 3. _____

LEARN: Understand another person's point of view

Interview Challenge: Think of someone in your class, school, or home who is different from you. That person could be a different age, have different interests, or have unique life experiences. Develop four questions to help you learn that person's thoughts about an issue that is important to you. For example, you may care about improving the environment or getting a new school playground. Your challenge is to ask that person your four questions and learn what they think about this issue.

LEAD: Take action together

It is time to use your voice to create change for the good of the whole! Teachers and students should work together to create positive change. Think about something that could be improved in your classroom that would benefit everyone. For example, your class may be too noisy or students may not be kind to each other. Working together, complete the following plan of action to achieve this goal.

Using our Voices for Positive Change!

Voice Definition

1. Feeling comfortable sharing your ideas in a safe space.
2. Sharing ideas that help everyone.
3. Being responsible and taking action.

Classroom Issue:

How will the classroom be different when this issue improves?

Student Actions:

What do students need to do differently to achieve this goal?
